November 29, 2010

Dear King Juan Carlos:

I am deeply honored to write you this letter. I am Dr. Dong-Keun Shin, a computer scientist. Based on my discoveries, I would like to introduce myself as one who made the greatest contribution to computer science and ask you to support me to be a leader in the field.

One of my discoveries, Shin sort, is mathematically proven to be the best sorting method in terms of speed not only in sorting but also in searching, and it can be used on any computer system. My papers and programs are displayed on my Web site at www.dkshin.com for scientists to investigate my sorting method for validation.

Ever since I declared myself the world's greatest computer scientist, I have not encountered any challenges yet. Whenever I have been asked to sit in a position of leadership, I have made sure the position was right for me. I would like to ask you to advise people in academic organizations to look into my research. Moreover, I will send a letter to introduce my theory in sorting and searching to academic institutions all over the world very soon. If any university has an objection to it, I expect one to speak out within a year. Otherwise, I will continue to claim Shin sort to be used in every computer system that sorts and searches data and will ask you to support me to lead people in computer science and related technologies.

Please find enclosed my profile and an invitation card to my concert and press conference that will be held on February 25, 2011, in Seoul, Korea.

God bless Spain.

Sincerely,

Dr. Dong-Keun Shin

Solicitud del ciudadano D. Dong-Keun Shin recibida por correo el 17 de Marzo de 2011 en el buzón electrónico del Centro para el Desarrollo Tecnológico Industrial, CDTI, del Ministerio de Ciencia e Innovación.

Dear Sr Dong-Keun Shin,

The Centre for the Development of Industrial Technology (CDTI) is a Spanish public organization, under the Ministry of Science and Innovation, whose objective is to help Spanish companies to increase the technological profile of said companies.

CDTI is manned by more than 300 employees, three quarters of which is made up of engineers and graduates. Although the bulk of the infrastructure of CDTI is located in Madrid, the Centre has made a strategic network of offices and representatives abroad available to Spanish companies (Japan -SBTO-, Belgium -SOST and a Permanent Eureka Secretariat-, Brazil -FINEP-, Korea, Chile, Morocco, China, India, Mexico and USA) to give them support in their international technological activities.

The KSI (Korea & Spain Innovating) Bilateral Technology Cooperation Program promotes joint technology cooperation projects between companies from South Korea and Spain via technology transfer, industrial research, technological development and innovation. The objective of this program is to promote, assist and fund the development of joint technology cooperation from South Korea and Spain in areas of mutual interest for the purpose of generating economic benefits for both countries.

Two or more business entities from both countries can take part in this program. They design and manage a shared project in any technical field. Moreover, the participation of other business entities or public research bodies within the consortium is permitted.

Each country, through its managing entities, CDTI in Spain and KIAT in South Korea, is responsible for evaluating and later certifying the projects approved with a "seal of quality" that offers the participating companies:

- International recognition of the technological level of participants.
- Access to funding in their respective countries according to their internal rules and regulations.

As for CDTI's financing, preferential funding of projects can be awarded subject to the following conditions:

- Credit of up to 75%, at zero rate of interest, of the budget of the Spanish participation.
- Period of amortization of up to 10 years with a grace period of 3 years.
- The non-refundable tranche of the credit implemented in the R + D is formed by a basic stretch will vary depending on company size and bonuses depending in the region where the project is developed and project characteristics.

Dear Dr Shin,

Thank you very much for your letter to the Chancellor dated 29 November 2010.

We have read with interest about your discoveries in computer science.

Given the many letters the Chancellor receives every day, she is unfortunately not in a position to answer each one in person. Her heavy schedule of engagements also prevents her from accepting your kind invitation, as I hope you understand. Please accept, however, my best wishes for a successful press conference on 25 February 2011.
