Dear Dr. Dong-Keun Shin,

Ministry of transport and communications of the Republic of Kazakhstan having considered your letter to the Prime-Minister of the Republic of Kazakhstan S. Akhmetov reports about the following.

According to orders of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan given at meetings on March 12 and April 16, 2008, the International University of Information Technologies was established.

Kazakhstan's first IT University has formed full-fledged «Bachelor degree - Magistracy - Doctoral studies of PhD» academic structure with 13 specialties on Kazakhstani and international programs, focusing generally on English studying.

The main partner of International University of Information Technologies in educational process is the iCarnegie business school, an affiliate of the Carnegie Mellon University (USA) and a provider of modern, world-class software systems development curriculum and professional certifications.

According to the contract, students of the University are taught in English according to the state standard program and the American standard of specialized modules (SSD) and at the end of training the graduates will be given the Kazakhstani state diplomas and the certificates of iCarnegie, recognized around the world.

The Ministry expresses it's gratitude that such a scientist in the field of computer technologies expressed desire to take part in training of our students. It is said in your letter that the new sorting method was discovered by you which has to be the best decision for sorting and search processes. Ministry hopes that this theory is unique and it will be used in computer systems, such as, systems of airlines, transport, stock market, etc.

Also, your assumption that the theory in sorting and searching has to be illustrated at school degree deserves special attention.

Considering abovementioned, the Ministry would be grateful for your offers in the field of improvement of methodology of training in computer science.
